Delaware County—New Economic Development Coordinator Hired

Jenna Jackson began this week as the Delaware County Economic Development Coordinator, reporting to Gus Comstock, Economic Development Director. Jackson, 28, joins the county after recently working with the Greene County Board of Developmental Disabilities and the Greene County Community Foundation.

While serving an internship in 2009 with the city of Xenia Department of Community Development, Jackson was responsible for writing and obtaining a state grant to initiate a Mural Society project targeting the revitalization of downtown Xenia. Her recent certifications and training have focused on urban renewal, consensus building, and grant management.

“Jenna was brought on-board as a leader to advance project support and elevate the county’s role in regional participation,” shared Comstock.

Jackson has her Bachelor’s of Art degree from Wright State University and her Master’s of Public Administration from the University of Dayton. ###
